He therefore could not make a similar assumption. The seizure and abduction of the prince, he said, were due to a mutiny on the part of the Bulgarian army. At the same time, the under secretary added, the government would decline to lay before the house the negotiations in progress relative to the Rulgarian crisis, for the reason that publicity would serve no good purpose, but, on the contrary, might do harm. The regoney of Bulgaria, he said, were following constitutional forms, and all the parties in the country appeared the mined to co-operate for peace.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—It is stated in the lobby of the house of commons that the alterations made at the last moment in Mr. Parneil's land bill have only serval to increase the government's dislike of the measure; also that the members of the conservative party and about a dozen liberal-unionists who still remain in town will oppose the second reading of the bill. The members on the front opposition beach observe reticance on the subject. It is rumored that Mr. Giadstone will not support Mr. Parneil's bill on account of the clause relating to leaseholds. On the other hand, a usually well-informed gentleman says that the ex-premier will support the bill; that he is in constant communication with THE PAUNELL LAND BILL. that he is in constant communication with Mr. Parnell, and that he approves the bill as finally drafted.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 14, 1886.—COMBADES OF THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC: With you, I have been protoundly touched by the great catamity to Charleston and vicinity caused by the recent carthquake. I came here as your representative to learn the exact facts as to the necessities of the people and to take such action as the occasion might require. The situation is briefly as follows: The immediate demand for food is promptly answered by the funds atready contributed, but there is a class of citizens whose houses are more or less shattered and who have no means wherewith to repair them. This shas and those who, being houseless, have nevertheless suffered loss of personal property require and from abroad. It will be to them a continued catamity unless help is rendered. The community here have done, and ass doing, everything in their power. A large sum of money is required to do all that ought to be done. This condition of affairs warrants immediate and extraordinary effort. I feel confident that every contrade is anxious to do what he can to bring comfort and happiness to the stricken popule.

I therefore request department commanders to call upon each post in their departments at once to appoint a committee, which shall collect such sums as commandes and their fellow, mayor of Charleston. A committee, on sating of seven of the best citizens of Charleston, will see to it that the mony is properly applied to the relief only of the worthy and necessious.

Commander-in-Chief G. A. R. THANKS.

The city council of Charleston to-day

The city council of Charleston to-day adopted unanimously the following:

Resolved, That the city council of Charleston return their thanks to the entire staff and employes of the News and Owner for the energy and pluck displayed by them in the continuous publications of their paper during all the excitement and contusion/consequent upon the recent carthquake.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS NEEDED. ONE MILLION DOLLAIS NEEDED.

At a meeting of the relief committee to day it was stated that it will take at least $1,000,000 to put the necessary repairs to the houses of persons who are utterly unable unaided to make their houses safe and habitable. Forms of application for assistance in rebuilding will be issued to morrow and plans completed likewise for giving limited pecuniary relief to those in need of clothing, bedding, &c., in consequence of the earlinguake.

Bricklayers are now paid $5 a day and plasterers $4, which tends to check rebuilding operations.

New York, Sept. 14.—At a meeting of the relief committee of the chamber of commerce held this afternoon the treasurer, Mr. John Crosby Brown, reported that he had received subscriptions to date smounting to $50,718, and he was authorized to send a further $20,000 to the mayor of Charleston. Letters were received from the vicuity of Charleston asking assistance, and they were referred to the mayor of Charleston for his consideration.

Mr. William E. Dodge, the chairman of the committee, stated that he had received a letter from Mayor Courtenay, in which he said that climatic and sanitary reasons now compelled a return to such homes as were habitable. They could live for a time without plastering and with other discomforts, and the people were all cheerful and were caim, and added that the people of Charleston would hold as beyond price, through all time, their identification with a common American citizenship which came to them in their great trials. Strong to help, strong to lift up, Charleston would never forget all that had been done for her. Dr. Simonds, president of the First National Bank of Charleston, suggested that a building association should be formed to loan money at a low rate of interest to the people of Charleston for rebuilding the city, and the suggestion was referred to a committee for consideration.

CITY OF CHARLESTON.

Distinguished for Intellect, Valor, Re finement, and Hospitality.

Charleston, one of the favorite cities of to our regards by a thousand special con-siderations. She has been distinguished by her early and active share in our revolu tion, in the formation of the constitution, in' the noble contribution of intellect and valor which she has made to the common capital of the country, in her generous sacrifices at all times in the common cause, by the refinement of her society, by the polish of her people, the general propriety hospitality.

The original plan of Charleston, forming a mere cantle of the plat as exhibited in the present day city, was sent out from England, and in that day was held to be a design of great beauty and propriety. The streets running at right angles, north and south, east and west, and without much heed to the topographical characteristics of the site, were as regular in their squares as those of the good Quakerly city of William Penn. Unhappily they were laues rather than streets, and one of the chief obstacles to proper improvement is due to this origito proper improvement is due to this original error, the fruits of a wretched economy of space, or of a more wretched ignorance as to sanitary effects. In that period, we are to remember, however, the notion was entertained that a city in the low latitudes was cool in degree with the narrowness of its passages. This idea was naturally borrowed from the practice in all Spanish towns, where you might shake hands with your sweetheart—nay, proceed to a loving familiarity with her lips across the street from your mutual balconies. The old city covered less than a tenth of the present surface, on the southeast corner; yet, unhappily, the original mistake of the proprietors has been perpetuated by their successors, and within a recent period new streets have been laid out but little wider than the gloomy lanes and avenues which were preferred 300 years ago.

Two spacious rivers embrace the Palmetto City, the Cooper and the Ashley. These units to form the harbor. Like Veulce, Charleston is built upon fasts and shoals of sand and mud. Approaching, it seems to rise directly from the sea. Nearer, you see the tout ensemble at a glance, and mark its most prominent characteristics—the verancies, balconies, plazzas, with the smple gardens which isolate the dwellings and form substitutes for public squares, wherein Charleston is woefully deficient. to proper improvement is due to this origi-nal error, the fruits of a wretched economy

Mr. Cleveland believes it will be a treat to all the ladies to catch some of the pickerel with which the Racquette abounds, and as they have all signified a desire to become "fishermen," troils will be rigged for them, and the ey can indulge in the sport while being rowed to and from the hunting country. Col. Lamont and his wife, instead of arriving to morrow, will probably not get here till Friday.

As the season for speckled trout closed to-day, the President determined to "make a day of it," and, secompanied by Dr. J. G. Hosman, of Brooklyn, visited Big Clear inlet in the forencon and again after dinner. Dr. Rosman is spending his twenty-third summer in the Adirondacks, and he is about as well informed as any guide in hunting and fishing matters. He has proved a very agreeable companion for the President since Dr. Ward's departure. Together they caught thirteen pounds of speckled trout, the President having by far the better luck. Two of his fish were beauties, weighing one and three-quarter pounds each.

GRANITE STATE CONVENTION. The Republicans in Convention Nomi-

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 14 .- The Republican state convention assembled this morning with a large attendance of delegates. The convention was called to order by Chairman Gallinger. Hon. Mason W. Tap-Chairman Gallinger. Hon. Mason W. Tappan was chosen permanent chairman. In his address to the convention he said that the contest about to be entered into is a forerunner of the great confilet of 1888, when the people of this country will be called upon to decide whether her destines shall be longer intrusted to the care of those who, a short time since, sought to deatroy her. The election of Cleveland was one of the greatest blessings ever bestowed upon the country, as it demonstrated that the Democratic party as at present organized is utterly incapable of governing the United States. The returns from Vermont and Maine, he said, indicate very clearly that the Republican party is from Vermont and Maine, he said, indicate very clearly that the Republican party is still active, aggressive, and successful. The speaker made a special point that the Democratic party is cuttrely controlled by southerners, and that the negro element is practically deprived of the franchise. The acuth is thus kept solid and the north is beaten by this fraud. The Democrats dare not openly and honestly meet the question of a protective tariff and free trade in the press, in Congress, or on the stump. The Democrats are hopeful of success in this state through the Prohibition party, but they will be disappointed because of their attitude in favor of license. The inactivity of the national administration in the matter of the Canadian fisheries was severely commented upon by the speaker.

Mr. Tappan said the strange spectacle was presented in this state of the temperance party playing into the hands of the Democrats. If the temperance people desire to prohibit the sale of liquor the law upon the statute books is strong enough. In any town where public sentiment desires it, the sale can be stopped.

The committee on credentials reported 505 delegates present.
